WNAX 570 Radio: 1922-2007 (Images Of America)

Synopsis

Life on the northern plains was lonely in the early 20th century. Farmers and ranchers went for weeks without hearing any voices other than those of their families. Then, in 1922, Al Madson, proprietor of a Yankton radio parts shop, made a radio transmitter. He formed a broadcasting company, and on November 25, 1922, WNAX broadcast its first program. People of the northern plains now had a daily visitor. Gurney Seed and Nursery Company owned the station for its first 16 years, adding distinctive innovations to its programming. In its constant commitment to agriculture, the station has influenced the history of the five-state area it covers. Lawrence Welk got his start there. Wynn Speece, known as the Neighbor Lady, still broadcasts daily after starting at WNAX in 1941.

Customer Reviews

I was hoping to find something in this book about my grandfather, who used to sing on WNAX, but sadly didn't. Other than that disappointment, the book was very interesting and very informative. AND the book arrived in great condition.

Marilyn did a grand job of recalling the history of WNAX. Anyone who remembers listening to this station will enjoy this book.

Book should be re- titled Wynn Speece Bio or the neighbor lady book. Not very interesting for your big friend in the Midwest.
