is the best-selling author of 'Walking with Frodo', among other books. A former youth director, she now writes and speaks to the postmodern generation about the adventure of faith--when she isn't tucked away with a good book. She's a member of the Mythopoeic Society and serves on the board of the C.S. Lewis Festival held annually in northern Michigan. Sarah lives in Durham, North Carolina, with her husband, Tom--who lovingly built her website [www.saraharthur.com].

Great writer and very inspirational. Enjoy reading a little at a time to savor each thought and idea.

Sarah has once again touched my life with her third devotional book. When I saw this book in my local Christian book store I immediately grabbed it and headed for the check out. I knew it was going to be great based on her other two devotionals Walking with Frodo and Walking with Bilbo. This book deals with so many different issues from so many different perspectives; there is something in it for everyone. This book is good for both teens and adults; it really can change your life.

Ms. Arthur is a writer that captures your attention from the first paragraph. Her books are thought provoking and provide a good base for spiritual growth.

Sarah Arthur is an amazing devotional author. In this book, she writes thought-provoking questions, relating modern-day dilemmas to the occurrences from C. S. Lewis' "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe." I gave this book as a gift to one of my 13-year-old foster daughters, who loved the Narnia movie, and she cannot put this book down. She has shared pages of it with us and is excited to be thinking about God, His Word, and her place in His plan. She's also become interested in C. S. Lewis because of this book. Thanks Sarah!
