Lisa Cherkasky is the author of You're the Chef, the cookbook companion for A Smart Girl's Guide: Cooking. She lives in the Washington, D.C., area with her funny, opinionated son and their lively, naughty dog. A graduate of the Culinary Institute of America, Lisa is not only a chef but also a popular food writer, food stylist, and culinary educator. The Washington Post, Marriott, Vegetarian Times, Maggie Moo's, the Food Network, Popcorners, Cakemate, Back-to-Nature, McCormick Spice, the Smithsonian, and National Geographic are just a few of her clients, and she maintains the blog TheLunchCounter.com, where she writes and riffs about sandwiches. Lisa is an active member of Les Dames d'Escoffier, the International Association of Culinary Professionals, and the Southern Foodways Alliance, as well as a charter member of theCulinary Historians of Washington. Elisa Chavarri is an illustrator and artist working from Alpena Michigan where she lives with her brave husband Matt, sweet daughter Lucia, crazy cat Tibbs, and silly dog Pancho. Elisa attended Savannah College of Art and Design where she earned a degree in Animation. She is a native of Lima, Peru. You can visit her at ElisaChavarri.com.

Fun and easy to use, this cookbook is chock-full of great recipes that are good for the whole family - not just kids. Coconut curry shrimp and garlicky white bean dip are a nice counterpoint to mac & cheese and pizza. I didn't want a cookbook that focused on hiding veggies or cutting things into cute shapes, and this fit the bill. I also really like the clear directions and the glossary. I've bought several as gifts - and may keep one for myself!

I was looking for a cookbook for a few of my "late to the table" friends (aka adults who now want to learn to cook with real food). I bought three copies of this sweet little book and have now benefitted from someone else doing the cooking. Easy, fun and delicious results. I recommend this book to anyone with entry level cooking skills.

My daughter has already marked all of her favorite recipes and tries a new one each chance she gets. Easy instructions and most ingredients are on hand unless seasonal.

My daughter loves this, she has made several of the recipes and they were great!

Beautiful book with clear instruction! It has recipes that kids love to make and eat. My 9 year old and I have made pancakes, chili, and the peachy parfait. She recommends the coconut curry shrimp.

Great! Can't wait to cook with my grand babies!

Bought this for my ten year old burgeoning chef, she loves it. Already trying it out on us.

A gift and she loved it.
