Customer Reviews

The Aztecs were family oriented with cleanliness being very important. If you were rich you had your own bathing rooms not unlike a sauna. Rich people's houses were made of stone or brick whilst poor people lived in small huts which had roofs made from palm leaves. What do you think likely happened to you if you broke the clothing laws? You were put to death! Children were taught manners from an early age. Slaves were around but were treated well and allowed their freedom. The Aztec empire's capital was Tenochtitlan which is believed to have been located in what is now Mexico City. What was the name of the largest Aztec festival? Xiuhmolpilli What games did they play? What about art? Learn the answers to these questions and much more in yet another, great educational resource from IP. Don't forget the video links at the end also!

Helps with teaching ESL in China.

I was particularly interested to learn more about Aztecs after reading about Incas in the series by this author. Although they had similarities, their main god being the Sun, coming from elsewhere before settling where they did, being a race of warriors and both being conquered by the Spanish, etc, they were in fact quite different in culture, language and outlook on life, etc. As usual, the photos and videos compliment the book.
